INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the 6th Jane Austen Regency Week, celebrating the time Jane Austen spent living and writing in the local area.

2013 marks the 200th anniversary of Pride and Prejudice being published. A special reception was organised on the publication date (28th Jan) and both Jane Austen's House Museum and Chawton House Library have been putting on events throughout the year. We are also arranging for road signs to tell visitors that Alton is "Jane Austen's Town".

We invite you to read about the many and varied events taking place during this week. If you need accommodation, see adverts on page 3 of this programme or our website.

Here are a few of our many testimonials about our students' successes:

Went from not being able to do maths to being able to tackle any maths given to her.

It is entirely due to the work he has done with Bettermaths that he made up lost ground at school.

Best in her class at Times Tables, with Bettermaths' help.

Without completing the Bettermaths programme I would not have achieved the grade I did in my GCSE.
